Trees To The Rescue

With the drought now definitely broken over the greater part of the prairie provinces and prospects of a period of more abundant moisture apparently bright, the time appears to have arrived when further consideration might well be given to the advantages of a definite and well co-ordinated program of tree planting throughout sparsely treed and treeless districts.

It is noted, of course, that tree planting is included as one of the items in the rehabilitation program outlined two or three years ago as part of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation program but to date comparatively little has been heard of this item, so far having been mainly centred on the construction of roads, manure bins and similar projects.

Undoubtedly tree planting will follow in many of the districts now being served or about to be served by recently constructed irrigation schemes as a matter of course, but there are still many areas and individual farms for which topographical and other reasons do not lend themselves to water by feasible irrigation projects, but in these areas, also, there appears to be no reason now why tree planting should not be pushed ahead to the extent available time and permit permits.

A Valuable Aid

That trees, wherever they can be planted, serve the purpose can play an important part in farm economics and can be made to go a long way sometimes even under adverse conditions, towards ensuring sustenance of the farm has been amply demonstrated in many individual cases, as witness the following extract from the annual report of the Canadian Forestry Association, dealing with southern Saskatchewan:

"The practice of tree planting is striking evidence of the possibility of the southern farmer becoming self-sufficient, as far as home food supplies are concerned. Had the farm garden been a universal policy instead of being completely overlooked, or at best in most cases, a haphazard venture, countless millions in food costs during the past nine years could have been avoided. The tree-planters who have needs anywhere throughout the south country, and an objective part of the job is good enough, and nothing but educational progress can achieve it."

"At Piapot, on the main line of the C.P.R., in an area of nine failures of wheat, we planted a man who, inside his walls of trees raised all his own grain. This last year—25 bushels of potatoes, all vegetables, many jars of small fruits, more than even plums and apples. Every farmer in that area could have done the same had he a few years ago given the need of such proper consideration."

Can Supply Requirements

Whether or not the普農 farmer referred to in the foregoing extract, had sufficient water available for his garden to take the place of rainfall during years when moisture was not sufficient to raise wheat crops, the Forestry Association's report does not say, but it does at least demonstrate that in years of rainfall, particularly in the country could supply the food requirements of a practically self-sufficient round, provided he has the requisite shelter in the form of trees and hedges.

It is too late, of course, to plant trees this year, but it is not yet too late to prepare soil for a shelter belt to be planted next year; indeed, this advance cultivation and preparation is a requisite to a successful planting. The art, though, not all farmers know is stressed by the authorship of the Dominion Forestry Farm who supply millions of trees free to farmers throughout the west every spring.

Mortality among planted trees in the dry-land areas of the west has been high during the drought period, but, at the same time, it is surprising how many trees survive, with some care and attention, withdrawn from a long period of dry weather. They have not made much top growth, it is true, but they have rooted deeper and deeper to reach the moisturing reserves now and these trees are responding again to more copious precipitation.

Opportunity Again Here

The experience of others demonstrates that the mortality of the drought years need not act as a deterrent to the planting of trees on the farm. On the contrary it goes to show that, even during a dry period, they are of immense benefit and with the drought now broken it should afford every opportunity for the farmer to take the active steps to provide, at least for some of his needs in future years, by establishing a good shelter belt at the first opportunity his circumstances permit.

It should further be pointed out that there are many farmers, even in the drought area, who had sufficient water to maintain a garden, if in earlier years they had provided the necessary shelter for vegetables and fruit trees. This omission can now be repaired in many cases and with the return of a period of greater precipitation it looks as if the time has arrived when trees should be planted more abundantly.

Fuel Operation Delayed

Shortage of equipment has held back the opening of the fuel oil plant at Lethbridge, Alberta.

Barbed Wire Wall

Fifty-Mile Fence To Be Built In

Nearly $425,000 is to be spent in Palestine in constructing a barbed-wire wall along the frontier where Lebanon, Syria and Trans-Jordan impinge upon Palestine in the hope that it will, in the words of Dr. Charles Viegas, the prime advocate, may be effective in keeping smugglers, agitators, gun runners, terrorists and fugitives from justice from using the border zone as a base of operations.

A despatch to the London Times from Jerusalem says that specifications of the plan call for 50 miles of barbed-wire fence, varying in height according to local conditions. The standard barrier apparently will consist of two parallel fences six feet high and five feet apart.

Each of the fences will have meshed wire at the bottom and barbed-wire above, and the space between the two fences will be crossed with a network of wire and topped with loose masses of wire. Where local conditions call for an even more formidable barrier than this, there will be three parallel fences.

Protect The Birds

Are Dependable Allies Of The Farmer In Destroying Insect Pests

Birds are natural enemies of insect pests. Close observers testify that most birds eat insects and eat practically nothing else. The thrushes, native sparrows, larks and wrens search the ground for insects. The sparrowhawk gives careful scrutiny to the bark and limbs of trees digging into tiny cracks and openings to drag out burrowing larvae and insects. The sparrow hawk and warblers are seen to be sitting on high places ready to snap up the low-flying insects, while the nighthawks and swallows find their living in the higher atmosphere.

In the case of insects destroyed by birds, it is quite beyond calculation. Few birds are entirely beneficial but there are few indeed that are entirely harmful. The starlings, for instance, starlings, which are becoming especially common in places, and the English sparrows. Both of these birds should be destroyed, for not only do they harm the crops but they chase away and destroy the native birds.

Treasure Hunt

New Attempt to Salvage Wreck Of Ship Which Sank 180 Years Ago

The first stage in the new attempt to save the treasure in the wreck of H.M.S. Lutine, which sank 183 years ago at the entrance to the Zuider Zee, has been accomplished. The largest dredger in the world, the Karimata, which has 131 scoops made of special steel, each of which cost $100, has been towed from the building yard at Kintorey, near Rotterdam, to Lutine.

Before the dredging begins the remains of the steel Becker Tower, which made an unsuccessful attempt last year, will be removed. Everything depends on a spell of favorable weather during the next two months.

Mr. Van den Brook, general manager of the Billiton Mining Company, which has been working the wreck at a depth of about 50 feet beneath the level of the sea with a team of 120 men, said: "It is the first purpose of the dredger to remove the sea at that point is about 1½ fathoms, which corresponds to the draught of the Karimata."—London Times.

Wheat Market In Europe

Want To Accumulate Reserve Stocks

In Event Of War

Foreign trade officials of the United States agriculture department said that unsettled political conditions in Europe might open new and larger markets for surplus American wheat during the next 12 months.

Prospects for larger sales in Europe were indicated, they said, by the recent decision of Great Britain to ban the Netherlands from accumulating wheat as a part of the import restrictions.

Foreign trade authorities said other European powers were known to be buying wheat.

The Netherlands has begun establishing a system for maintaining at least two months' supply of wheat at all times. Grain importers and dealers would be held responsible for maintaining a minimum of 100,000 metric tons of wheat as a reserve assistance from the government.

Little is known about the British plan.

Trade experts estimated that some wheat imports for consumption needs during the next year would be about 450,000,000 bushels or about 12,000,000 more than during the last 12 months. Reserve stocks were not included in the statistics.

The position of possible reserve purchases of wheat in America would depend largely on prices, officials said, pointing out that if American prices were above the world level, imports might be elsewhere.

Official crop reports indicate that Canada and Argentina may produce 12,000,000 bushels more than last year. Trade experts said that amount probably would be sufficient to meet the most optimistic increase in world import requirements.

Musn Develop North

Should Be Utilized To Hold It For The White Man

Canada must develop and utilize its northland to hold it for the white man, W. D. Albright, superintendent of the Dominion experimental farm at Beaverlodge, Alta., warned the American Association for the Advancement of Science in annual convention.

The northland of this continent is to be held by the white man unless he can be induced to do so.

For a particular reason of her own very proper concern, the United States must be interested in the northland of this continent.

"In the modern search for material gain, in the mad quest for economic self-sufficiency, in the race of armaments and in the usurpations of power for 'a place in the sun,' which seems often to be the motto, through which the northern third of this continent can be held by the white man unless developed and utilized by him? What of Asia?"

The Spirit Of China

Was Shown In Gift Sent By Madame Chang Kai-Shek

In June, 1917, a war year for the United States, the present Madame Chang Kai-Shek, as a daughter of the famous Chinese Soong family was graduated from Wellesley College.

June, 18, 1938, Mme. Chang's Chinese husband, a general, was killed in a war with Japan. But, 1938 is a war year for China, and Mme. Chang could not attend.

Instead she sent a gift of silver spoons which she had used at a recent Chinese wedding. When she sent the gift, she would say that she was sharing in the festivities, she added that the spoons are "to show that a spoon may be licked, but it is not good."

Mme. Chang's patriotism is characteristic of the new China which she and her generalissimo husband have helped to build, a new China which, with its steel, is now defending itself, a war still undeclared. Her humor and love of sparkle are likewise characteristic.

The western world should realize these racial traits are not the least important of the weapons with which China fights an aggressor—Detroit Free Press.

HOPPERS ON THE DECLINE.

In the Harmony Municipality according to the latest reports, the grasshoppers are no longer a real menace. In the early part of the season the Municipality was aware of the danger and took steps to meet the situation by setting up much inquiry and supplies to produce a real knock-out blow to the hoppers as the situation developed.

And now after a very busy season the insect stations where eight shifts at times were employed to meet the demand for poison from many areas in the municipality, the menace has been cut down to a 5% loss which is a very remarkable showing.

This is another case of showing what can be accomplished by going after these pests in a business way, and at a time when the poison bait does its work best.

Industry Seeks
Maximum Markets
For Turner Valley

When crude oil was discovered in Turner Valley in 1924, the prairies promptly discontinued their purchase of Montana crude so far as to afford a market for Canadian production. This was due to the fact that a movement which would result in a country at large, first by an increase production of wealth, and second, reduced prices for petroleum products to the consumers.

Obviously the amount of the price reduction varies. It is greatest in the Calgary and Edmonton areas which are the largest immediate market of Turner Valley. In these districts it amounts to 5¢ cents per gallon of gasoline, with relative decreases in prices of other products.

Part of the reason for the reduction in part was to bring a disastrous condition in the Montana field which previously had been supplying crude oil for the prairies, and which derived its importance from the product.

CARMANGAY

It has been necessary to close Bow Valley school permanently as there are only three pupils. Miss Patsey Baldwin, the former teacher, is attending Summer School at Calgary.

Two new teachers were appointed to the staff of the public school at a recent meeting of the board. Miss Helen Farmer, of Champion will have charge of the intermediate room and supervise music throughout the school, while Miss Ruth Anderson, also of Champion who has been teaching the Ryckman School west of Carmanay for the past two years, will be in charge of the primary room.

Another familiar landmark, the Oldfellow's Hall, is to be sold and it has been suggested that this building should be bought and fitted up as a gymnasium for our young people. This is a splendid idea and, as a community enterprise, would be especially worthy while we have a number of young people in the town and district and they would find a gymnasium of untold benefit. Let's get to work and see what can be done.

FEEDING:

During the fifth to fifteenth days feed four times daily. Gradually decrease the quantity of egg and increase grain and starter mash so that on the fifteenth day no egg is fed. If egg is fed, add a small amount of grain to the mash.

The following were winners in the St. Peter's club's brook riding competition: brook riding, Jerry Amblin of Minburn, second; Waldo Ross of Warner; brook riding, bareback, by Baird of Graham; Jim Wright of Vauxhall; steer riding, R. C. Clancy of Stavely, O. Thomas of Champion; calf roping, Sandy Connell of Stavely, B. Andrews of Claresholt; amateur bareback brook riding by A. Redlon of Milo, Duke Melon of Vulcan. The 11-mile derby was won by a horse belonging to Sanford of Champion with Ken Oatts as jockey.

Mash. Feed mixed meal morning and evening. At noon give chick size grain including a little cracked corn and whole wheat. During the morning and evening add pelleted grain, lettuce, lettuce or clover with the stems cut off. Add ten percent meal to the growing mash and also, if available, five percent alfalfa meal. This meal is best if blossoms are cut only and should be grown in good soil, which has been added plenty of commercial free-flowing fertilizer, such as C-L fertilizers. Use of this fertilizer gives to the plant the minerals so vital for the growing chick, and makes the green food much more succulent. A little oatmeal, or better, full-sized rolled oats, may now be given.
